Relevance (maximum score: 15 points)

The extent to which the proposal meets the following criteria:

- Relevance for action objectives: the proposal contributes to the objectives of the European partnerships for school development;
- Needs analysis: the application is based on comprehensive analysis of needs and challenges in the school education systems of the participating countries/regions;

[This section is linked to the award criterion 'Impact'. Additional information linked to this award criterion is requested in the section 'Project design' tracking the progress of each work package, and a special work package for your project's 'Plan for long-term impact'.

Impact (maximum score: 35 points)	The extent to which the proposal meets the following criteria: • Project results: the project proposal clearly identifies improvements in the practices, policies and procedures of school authorities and schools that will happen as a result of the project; • Tracking project results: the proposal defines clear implementation milestones, and qualitative and quantitative indicators to prove that the planned improvements have taken place; • Tracking impact: the proposal defines clear qualitative and quantitative indicators to track the long-term impact of the project results; • Long-term impact: ▫ the project proposal includes concrete and logical steps to integrate the project results in the regular work of participating organisations; ▫ the project includes a clear plan and preparation to continue using its results after the project; • Transferable results: the planned project can be used outside the participating organisations at local, regional, national or European level; • Sharing results: the project proposal includes concrete and effective steps to make the results of the project known within the participating organisations, to share the results with other organisations and the public, and to publicly acknowledge the European Union funding.

Ietekme (II)

When answering the following questions on tracking progress and impact, make sure to avoid the common error of measuring only outputs and not impact. You need to track both aspects: the direct outputs (e.g. we will do something or create something) and the impact that these outputs will create (thanks to what we have done or created, the positive effects will be...). The word 'results' is used in the award criteria for European partnerships for school development instead of 'output' to signal flexibility and openness, since these projects may produce important non-tangible, procedural results.

Measuring impact consists in tracking the positive effects of your actions beyond the fact of having done what you planned to do. Impact comes after the outputs are delivered and should continue beyond the project duration (see questions under work package for 'Long-term impact plan').

Tracking project results: List your project's key implementation steps and milestones, showing how achieving them will gradually lead to the improvements you have described under 'Project results'. Where possible, define qualitative and quantitative indicators to track the delivery of these results. *

Partnerības un sadarbības pasākumu kvalitāte (I)

This section is linked to the award criterion 'Quality of the partnership and the cooperation arrangements'. In addition, information you have provided about the background and experience of the participating organisations is equally important for the assessment of this criterion.

Quality of the partnership and the cooperation arrangements (maximum score: 20 points)	The extent to which the proposal meets the following criteria: • Project coordinator: the coordinating organisation has appropriate expertise, resources and role in the education system to successfully lead the project; • Partnership composition: - the partner school authorities have complementary experience, needs, and roles in the education system; - the partner schools have a clear and proportional role in the project; - the partner schools are sufficiently diverse in terms of their experience in cross-border mobility and cooperation; - the size and scope of the partnership is appropriate for the achievement of the planned project results; • Allocation of tasks: the proposed allocation of tasks demonstrates the commitment and continuous active involvement of all participating organisations, and in particular the coordinating and partner school authorities; • Complementarity: the proposal is complementary to other initiatives already being carried out by the participating organisations, in particular Erasmus accreditations in Key Action 1; • Communication and coordination: the proposal includes effective mechanisms for coordination and communication between the participating organisations, as well as with other relevant stakeholders.

 Project design

European partnerships for school development are funded with a 'lump sum' model. This means that a total value is assigned to the project, and it is then your task to break down the total into different work packages and activities that you will carry out to successfully complete the project.

Note on subcontracting: subcontracting services is allowed if it does not cover core activities on which the achievement of the objectives of the action directly depends. If subcontracting is planned, the amount budgeted for it must be included in the description of the activities in this section.

This section is linked to the award criterion 'Quality of project design', except when otherwise indicated for specific questions or sections.

Quality of project design (maximum score: 30 points)	The extent to which the proposal meets the following criteria: • Work packages: - the proposed methodology is clear, adequate and feasible; - the project work plan is coherent, clear, complete and effective; • Monitoring: the project proposes appropriate quality control, monitoring and supervision measures to ensure that the project implementation is of high quality, completed in time and on budget; • Budgeting: the project is cost-effective and allocates appropriate resources to each activity and partner; • Inclusion and diversity: the activities are designed in an accessible and inclusive way; • Digital: the project incorporates the use of digital tools such as the European School Education Platform (including eTwinning) and learning methods to complement their physical activities and improve cooperation between partner organisations; • Environmental sustainability: the project is designed in an eco-friendly way and incorporates green practices in different project phases; • Participation and civic engagement: the project encourages participation and civic engagement.
